

RHADC 2025 Wednesday Night Racing

Another note about ratings.....

Ratings is the topic most likely to cause the most debate around the dock and at the bar. We are using the SoCal random leg rating system as a basis for our own ratings and while providing an independent view of how a particular boat may perform, is not without its own idiosyncrasies. To be frank a one number system to rate all boats in all wind conditions is never going to be perfect. But we are trying.

We have undertaken a data collection exercise, compiling results over the last six years, of different boats, sailing in different conditions, on different length courses to understand the relative performance of boats.

We have reviewed the current numbers, and we are going to adjust them slightly with the aim of making our sailing more equitable. As such, we have determined that a number of boats warranted a change.

The ratings for the 2025 WNR Series will be:
